REPORT OF MEMORIALS

HON. FRANK E. FISK

Frank E. Fisk was born at Fulton, Ill., November 30th, 1877. He was educated in public schools at Morrison, Ill. He later attended school at the Northern Illinois college at Dixon, following which he studied telegraphy at which he worked to earn money to complete his law education.

Born in a family of lawyers, Judge Fisk went to Grand Forks to study law under George A. Bangs and C. J. Fisk, supreme court member, and a brother of the Williston man.

Frank Fisk was admitted to the bar in 1899 and the next year he went to Bottineau to open his practice in partnership with E. B. Goss. He remained in Bottineau until 1904 when he came to Williston to enter the firm of Greenleaf, Leighton and Fisk.

He was also a partner of the late Geo. A. Moellring and George Shafer before he received his district court appointment in 1911 under Governor Burke. In April of that year he was married to Miss Olive Bissell at Helena, Mont. She was a former Larimore, N. D., woman.

Frank Fisk was district judge from 1911 to 1920 when he relinquished the bench to Judge George Moellring. He returned to his private practice in the city and since that time has been the senior member of the firm of Fisk, Craven and Taylor.

Four years ago he suffered a stroke which left him partially paralyzed but despite his handicap he was at his office daily. Last year he was named attorney for the Home Owners Loan corporation and helped many local persons to re-finance their homes. He was a charter member of the Williston Elks lodge and he was likewise a member of the Knights of Pythias. He was also a member of the American Bar Association.

He passed away Friday night, June 21st, 1935, at his home in Williston. He was found dead in his chair on the porch by his wife. He had returned from a motion picture show a few minutes before and sat down on the porch as was his habit shortly before retiring.

Funeral services were held Tuesday afternoon at 2 o'clock at St. Peter's Episcopal church with Rev. Alex Macbeth officiating. Interment was made at Riverview cemetery.

Judge Fisk is survived by his wife, two daughters, Marion and Jeanne, and one son, Frank, who arrived from Chicago to attend the services. He is also survived by three sisters, Mrs. Myrtle Dodd, Oklahoma City, Okla., Miss Ida Fisk and Mrs. Emma MacFarland of Los Angeles.

Judge Fisk was widely known in judicial circles throughout the state and for years was considered one of the best legal minds in the state. For 31 years the former Williston judge had made Williston his home and in late years claimed a wide circle of friends throughout the entire upper Missouri country.

MR. SMITH STIMMELL

Smith Stimmell, 92, sole surviving member of President Lincoln's personal bodyguard and pioneer Fargo attorney, died Sunday in his Fargo home. Death was due to complications of old age.

Mr. Stimmell was one of the picked men of the Seventh Independent Ohio Cavalry troop selected to act at the White House as the personal bodyguard of Abraham Lincoln during the Civil war. His first enlistment for Civil war service was in an Ohio volunteer infantry regiment, recruited for three months' duty. At the end of that time he entered Ohio Wesleyan university to study law, but at the close of his first year he enlisted with the Seventh Independent Ohio cavalry and was selected as one of the guards for the president. This personal bodyguard was still in service as such at the time of Lincoln's assassination, but was dismissed by President Andrew Johnson soon after and was mustered out in September, 1865.

Resuming his studies, Mr. Stimmell was graduated from Ohio Wesleyan in 1869 and then studied for two years at the Cincinnati law school. He practiced in Cincinnati several years and then removed to Fargo where he became prominent in his profession as well as in Republican politics. In 1888 he was elected president of the territorial council and was the last to hold that office as the territory was divided into the states of North and South Dakota upon their admission to the union in 1889. He continued in active legal practice until 1921.

While serving as a member of Lincoln's bodyguard Mr. Stimmell made an intimate study of the characteristics and traits of the president and used this knowledge in lectures in many states. He also had written many articles on Lincoln.

Mr. Stimmell was born on a farm near Columbus, Ohio, December 17, 1842. He was married twice. His first wife, who was Margaret Goode of Sydney, Ohio, died in 1902. Later he married Annie J. Sibley of Fargo, who survives. Other survivors are two sons, William G. and George of San Francisco by his first marriage, and a daughter and son Mildred and Howard, by his second marriage.

Until very recently Mr. Stimmell had been in good health, although it has been some years since he engaged in business or in practicing law. A well known figure on Fargo streets, he numbered his acquaintances in this area among the thousands. He was active in G. A. R. activities, and took a leading part in all celebrations incident to patriotic holidays.

The funeral was held from the First Methodist church, with Rev. Henry L. Weiss, the pastor, officiating.

HON. GEORGE H. MOELLRING

Former Supreme Court Justice George H. Moellring, age 57, assistant attorney general, and one-time district judge, passed away at a Bismarck hospital at 11:45 Friday, May 31st, 1935, of trichiniasis, a disease developing from a parasite found in insufficiently cooked meat, particularly pork, according to medical authorities. Kidney complications contributed to the death, according to the attending physician.

Judge Moellring had been ill for three months, first calling his doctor the day after the legislative session adjourned in March. He was removed to the hospital when his condition became critical.

Judge Moellring was appointed to the state supreme court in October, 1933, upon the resignation of L. E. Birdzell to accept an appointment in Washington. He served until January of this year and since had been an assistant attorney general under P. O. Sathre.

Prior to acceptance of the supreme court post Judge Moellring had served 13 years on the bench in the fifth district and had been re-elected to a six-year term in 1932.

Born in Quincy, Ill., November 14, 1878, Judge Moellring received his education in the public schools of Adams county and subsequently attended Chaddock college at Quincy, where he took a part of his law course. After completing his education at Highland Park college, Des Moines, Ia., he practiced law at Mason City, Ia., before coming to North Dakota in 1902, settling at Langdon. Three years later he moved to Ray, Williams county, where he practiced law until his election to the district court in 1921.

Active in charitable work, Judge Moellring was a member of the advisory board of the Florence Crittenton home, Fargo, the advisory board of the Children's home at Fargo, and a member of the board of directors of the North Dakota Tuberculosis association.

He was a member of the Methodist Episcopal church and of the Odd Fellows, Modern Woodmen, Knights of Pythias and Ancient Order of United Workmen lodges.

Among other distinctions, Judge Moellring was an author, having written "The Neutral's Portion," a novel published in 1916. It was written under the nom de plume of Elwin Lorraine.

Judge Moellring was married on June 28th, 1905, to Miss Nellie Wiley. Four children survive. They are Mrs. Kent Whitlock, St. Paul; and Genevieve Leone, Lela Lorraine, and Justin Hubert George Moellring of Bismarck.

Three brothers and two sisters also survive. They are Daniel Moellring, Crayton, Ill.; Philip and Fred, Wild Rose, N. D.; Mrs. Tillie Benton, Quincy, Ill., and Mrs. John Glasser, Trenton, Ill.

Funeral services for Judge Moellring were held on Tuesday, June 4th, at 2 o'clock p. m. in the McCabe Methodist Episcopal church of Bismarck with Rev. Walter E. Vater, pastor of the church, officiating. A large concourse of his friends and official associates, and judges of the supreme court, attended the services.

During the judge's service on the district court bench of the Fifth Judicial District he made many friends, not alone among the litigants and people who had business in his court, but among the lawyers who appeared before him. He was a very unassuming man, and made no pretensions of being a great judge, but because of his fine disposition, equable poise, care and attention to his judicial duties, and because of his ever apparent desire to act fairly, he was not only respected, but brought to himself the admiration of litigants and lawyers alike.

He did not indulge in technicalities, but rather sought to discover the real issues in every case, and to treat those issues conscientiously and in a manner fair to all interested parties.

I am sure the bar of this state, and especially the members of the bar of his old judicial district where he served so long and so faithfully, will always remember him with respect and high esteem, not only because of his attitude while on the bench and in the exercise of his duties, but because we believe all will agree that he was a man of very high moral character and always sought the right, and endeavored to do right.

J. F. CALLAHAN

J. F. Callahan, 75, city attorney and president of the Casselton school board, died suddenly at noontide Sunday, March 17th, 1935, of heart disease from which he had long been afflicted. His death came just one week from the day he returned from St. John's hospital where he had received treatment for several weeks. At that time he was in good condition, and feeling better than he had for years. An attack of pleurisy proved too much for his weak heart and death followed after a few days.

Mr. Callahan had served "off and on" as city attorney and member of the district school board for years. He was elected a board member in 1905 and served until 1917. He ran for office again in 1932, and at the time of his death was board president.

John Franklin Callahan was born in Ontario, Canada, July 21, 1860. When he was four years of age, his parents, who had immigrated from Ireland, moved to Iowa where he was reared and educated. He first attended a rural school in Webster county, Iowa, and later a school in Sioux City, Ia. He attended the Iowa State Normal and Agricultural school at Ames, and the Normal at Madison, So. Dakota.

In 1885 he came to Dakota territory and taught in the rural schools near Casselton. In 1890 he was elected to the office of county superintendent of schools and finally was forced to relinquish the office to Robert Butler in 1895.

Mr. Callahan studied law and was admitted to the bar in 1898.

During the McKinley-Bryan presidential campaign, Mr. Callahan stumped this state and others for McKinley and was rewarded with the postmastership of Casselton. He served until 1905.

Surviving is an only son, Lloyd Callahan, of San Francisco, Cal., and three brothers, Tim of Fort Dodge, Ia., Pat of Bonner's Ferry, Idaho, and Jerry of Spokane, Wash.

Funeral services were held in the Lincoln school auditorium. The schools and business houses were closed during the funeral hours. Lloyd Callahan, accompanied by Mr. and Mrs. A. M. Larson of Fargo and Miss Myrabelle Knight, went with the body to Minneapolis where it was cremated.

Eulogizing the late J. F. Callahan at rites Friday, March 22nd, Attorney V. R. Lovell of Fargo, who started his professional career in Casselton in the early days, and knew Mr. Callahan well, said:

"Mr. Callahan possessed a modest and retiring personality. . . . His outstanding character leaves only good thoughts to those left behind. . . . In his professional career he was a model. I have never known him to disregard even once the ethics of the bar. . . . He helped build Casselton, Cass county and the state of North Dakota. . . . He had the characteristics of a just man and a stable man. . . . He possessed brotherly love to all his neighbors. . . . Only good can be spoken of Mr. Callahan."

Members of the Cass County Bar association attended the funeral. Nelson Sauvain of Bismarck, chairman of the state board of administration, also attended the rites. Mr. Callahan was on the school board when Mr. Sauvain was superintendent of the Casselton schools.

THOMAS J. CLIFFORD

Thomas J. Clifford, well known Langdon attorney, prominent in political circles, passed away at his home in Langdon, Wednesday morning, November 7th, 1934, after being critically ill for about a week. The funeral was held Friday morning at 10 o'clock at St. Alphonsus church in Langdon—Rev. C. Ward presiding—and interment was made in Calvary cemetery.

Thomas Joseph was the son of James and Mary Clifford, and was born February 18th, 1885, at Robarney, County West Meath, Ireland. As a youth he joined the British army and served in the Boer war. In 1905 he came to the United States, shortly after finishing his course in Trinity college in Dublin. After spending a year in New York he came to North Dakota.

He was employed by the Great Northern railroad for a time and later was engaged in the banking business in Rolette and Towner counties. During 1913 and 1914 he served as a deputy state bank examiner under L. B. Hanna, then governor of the state. He had been engaged in the practice of law at Langdon for about fourteen years and also maintained a practice at Walhalla. In 1932 he was a candidate for the Republican nomination for Congress. In November, 1933, he served as chairman in the removal proceedings against R. E. Wenzel of the state workmen's compensation board and in 1934 was a candidate for district judge. He was an active member and officer of the Langdon Lions club and other civic organizations.

He was married Nov. 15th, 1907, to Mae Blackerby at Cando, and to this union two children were born—James Harold of the U. S. S. Maryland in the United States Navy, and Mrs. Frances Brennen of Langdon. The two children survive. Their mother died a few years ago. The deceased was married July 10, 1920, to Elizabeth Howitz at Langdon who survives with the two sons born to this union. The boys are Thomas John and Patrick Joseph, both at home. Four sisters of the deceased, all living in Ireland, also survive.

HON. ANDREW A. BRUCE

Judge Andrew A. Bruce, former dean and professor of the University of North Dakota law school, and former chief justice of the North Dakota supreme court, died Dec. 7th, in Passavant hospital of Chicago, after a brief illness.

He was 68 years old. Since 1922 he had been a member of the Northwestern university law faculty and recently had served as chairman of the N. R. A. compliance board for Chicago. Heart attack caused his death.

Prominent in North Dakota educational and legal circles for many years, Professor Bruce was a professor of law at the University in Grand Forks from 1902 to 1911 and was dean of the law school during the latter seven years of that period.

In 1911 he was elected associate justice of the state supreme court, serving in that capacity until 1916 when he became chief justice. He continued as chief justice for three years and in October, 1919, became a professor of law at the University of Minnesota. Three years later he went to Northwestern university.

He was a former president of the North Dakota state board of bar examiners and of the State Bar association. He took a leading part in the enactment and enforcement of the child labor and "sweat shop" laws of Illinois and Wisconsin. He was a member of several national legal organizations and president of the American Institute of Criminal Law and Criminology.

Judge Bruce was the author of a large number of publications on law and published a treatise on the Nonpartisan League during his residence in North Dakota.

Judge Bruce was born April 15, 1866, in the mountain fort of Nunda Drug, in Madras, India. His parents were Scotch and his father was General Edward Archibald Bruce of the British army. Both of his parents died when he was a child and he came to America alone when 15 years old.

He worked his own way through college and graduated from the University of Wisconsin and the law school of that institution. He was appointed secretary to the supreme court judges of Wisconsin in 1890 and two years later was named chief clerk of the law department of Wisconsin Central railway.

He was attorney for the Illinois board of factory inspectors from 1893 to 1895 and practiced law in Chicago until 1898. He became a professor of law at Wisconsin university in 1898, resigning in 1902 to accept a similar position at the University of North Dakota.

Two children, Glenna and Edward, survive him, as does his widow.

Our deceased brother was a scholarly man, a great teacher and one of the soundest judges who ever held a place on the bench of this state. He was fair in every act of his life. It was natural for him to be just. First of all a man must be bright within himself before he can be a good neighbor, a good citizen, or a good judge. Judge Bruce was all of this, for he was a good man.

WILLIAM McMURCHIE

William McMurchie, 75 years old, pioneer lawyer and former state's attorney of Pembina county, died from pneumonia at 3 p. m., March 21st, 1935, at his home in Cavalier, N. D.

Funeral rites were held Saturday afternoon with Rev. Frank Shallcross officiating. Burial was in the cemetery at Cavalier.

William McMurchie was born June 24th, 1859, at Vaugh, Ontario. He moved to St. Thomas, N. D., in the early 1880's and practiced law. He moved to Cavalier about 1911 and served as state's attorney for eight terms, a total of 16 years. He was a graduate of a law school at Toronto, Ontario.

Besides practicing law, he has been an auctioneer in this vicinity in recent years.

Mr. McMurchie leaves seven children, Plimy McMurchie of Buffalo, New York, William McMurchie, Jr., of Walhalla, North Dakota, Charles McMurchie of Kellogg, Idaho, and Margaret, Connie, Dean and Joy McMurchie, all of Cavalier.

V. E. STENERSEN

V. E. Stenersen, Minot city attorney, and member of the law firm of Nestos, Herigstad and Stenersen, died January 7, 1935. Heart disease caused his death.

He was taken ill while attending a meeting of the city council. After being given medical treatment in the dormitory of the fire department, and announcing that he felt better, he was taken home, where he succumbed a few minutes after arrival.

Active in Masonic grand lodge work, Stenersen was widely known throughout the state. He was a past worshipful master of the Masonic lodge here, and also was a past exalted ruler of the Minot lodge of Elks. He was a member of the American Legion.

His wife and three children, and his mother living in Minot, are among the survivors.

Stenersen was a former state's attorney of Ward county and was serving on the board of education of the Minot school district. His wife is Republican national committeewoman of North Dakota.

The funeral was held at the First Presbyterian church in Minot and burial was made in the cemetery there.

Stenersen had practiced law at Bowbells, where he was an assistant state's attorney, and at Parshall, before opening law offices in Minot.

He was a graduate of the University of Minnesota law school.

RESOLUTIONS

NOW, THEREFORE, BE IT HERE AND NOW RESOLVED, That in the death of these honored members of our Association we severally and unitedly express our deep appreciation of them, and of the lives they lived, and of the services they rendered, not only in the immediate line of their work, but as earnest, loyal citizens and residents of their respective communities, and that we deeply mourn their loss and express our deepest sympathy for each and all the members of their respective families, from whom they are separated for a time.

Among the older members of our profession in this state the ranks are fast thinning, and some of the present membership will doubtless live to the time when none of those who might be termed the "Old Guard" of the profession in this state, will be here to meet and to greet you.

I believe it will go without saying that that portion of the membership of our Association, who may be termed "the rising generation" in our profession, will ever remember and hold in respect the members of the "Old Guard," who, I am sure as a class have ever tried to aid the younger members, and to maintain and uphold the high standards of our profession.

This will surely be the case because it runs in the blood of real lawyers to be friendly and sympathetic and to appreciate the good they find in other members of the profession, and in the younger element we know it is their desire and their will to emulate the good things which they observe in the older members of the profession, and to be kind and considerate, one towards the other, no matter what court-room differences they may have, and to cherish the better things, not only in the profession, but in life itself.

BE IT FURTHER RESOLVED, That a copy of these biographies and of these resolutions be sent to the families of the deceased members, and that the originals hereof be filed with the Secretary of the Bar Association, and spread at large upon the records in his office.

Dated at Grand Forks, N. D., this 16th day of August, 1935.

H. A. LIBBY,
Chairman Memorials Committee.

MR. LIBBY: I move the adoption of this report. (The motion was duly seconded, submitted and carried).

PRESIDENT FOSTER: I neglected to announce that the Association has an invitation from the City of Valley City to hold its meeting there next year. This is a matter that properly comes before the Executive Committee, and if there are any other invitations, the matter should be brought to the secretary for attention before the next meeting of the Executive Committee.
